The Great Lakes Community Action Partnership Ready to Work Youth Program provides career training and other support for youth ages 14-24 who are facing challenges such as:

- Being pregnant or a young parent
- Having no high school diploma or GED
- Being a current or former foster child
- Being involved in the court system
- Being homeless
- Having a disability
- Needing assistance with math, English and other skills

The Great Lakes Community Action Partnership Ready to Work Youth Program is funded by Sandusky County Department of Job and Family Services and U.S. Department of Labor Workforce Innovation and Opportunity Act and Comprehensive Case Management and Employment Program/Temporary Assistance for Needy Families funding.

Achieve your goals through Ready to Work

Get started with Ready to Work
You have plans. Ready to Work can help make your plans a reality. Whether you are a young parent, have prior convictions, have dropped out of high school, or face any other challenges or obstacles to meeting your goals, we are here to help.

Graduate with Ready to Work
If not having a high school diploma is slowing you down, we can help you earn your GED or high school diploma. We will also help you develop leadership ability, better manage your finances, build your resume, and learn other life skills to help you along the way.

Train through Ready to Work
Whatever your goals are, Ready to Work can link you to the right training to suit your needs. If you are interested in a skilled trades career, a health care field, or even want to start your own business, we can make a plan with you and connect you to education that will make it happen.

Earn with Ready to Work
We can connect you to job placements, internships, and other opportunities so you can start earning money now while gaining work experience. We can also provide supportive services, guidance, and other help for participants. We want you to succeed.
